KORPORATION COMPLETES ACQUISITION OF DECK PROPERTIES

January 31, 2008 – Strengthening its position as a worldwide sales leader and manufacturer of high-quality products and life-altering services, The Korporation is pleased to announce the recent acquisition of both an experimental Deck device known as “The Box” and a low-ranking card, the Four of Spades.

The acquisition of this asset and personnel will bring additional competence, metaphysical know-how and rabbit-hole capabilities complementary to The Korporation’s existing base of marketing and design expertise. The Four of Spades’ knowledge base ranges from mania to dementia, with advanced experience in subjection to various types of physically, mentally and spiritually damaging testing. This will serve him well in the upcoming weeks.

Korporation representatives discovered “The Box” during a recent visit to the temporary residence of The Four of Spades. Based on previously set relationship levels, certain Korporation personnel let themselves into the room, at which point the device and the Four of Spades, who was unconscious on a nearby bed, were acquired.

While such a willing participant in demanding experiments is usually taken for granted, once this subject releases the necessary information, no doubt certain emotional attachments will make the Four of Spades a highly prized negotiating tool. Those who believe they have the wherewithal to negotiate his release can contact us through the appropriate channels. Until such a time, the Four of Spades remains capital property of The Korporation.

About The Korporation

The Korporation is power.

About the Four of Spades

The Four of Spades is largely insane, a husk of a functioning human being, as a result of years of careless laboratory testing by blood relatives. While at many times incoherent and typically vengeful, recent attempts to stabilize Morcar leave Korporation staff scientists to be optimistic about his return to a more normal, easily manipulated state.
